

Electrical Components International (ECI) Reaches a New Strategic Milestone

Dear ECI Partner,

I am writing to share an important update about a new chapter for ECI. Earlier today, we announced an agreement for ECI to be acquired by Rosebank Industries plc, a British public company traded on AIM, a market operated by the London Stock Exchange.

For those unfamiliar with Rosebank, it is an investment company that specializes in partnering with strong industrial and manufacturing businesses. Its leadership has been investing in these sectors for more than two decades and brings significant experience partnering with management teams and strong-performing businesses like ECI to drive long-term, sustainable growth. We are excited to be working with their talented and experienced team and are confident that they are the right partner for our next chapter of growth.

Rosebank also shares our excitement for the future of ECI. With their support, we will continue to invest in our business and our people, with a strong focus on operational and commercial excellence. This is an important milestone for ECI and a testament to our mission and long-term vision.

While exciting, this announcement is just the first step in this process. We expect to complete the transaction promptly after the satisfaction of customary closing conditions, including the receipt of all necessary regulatory approvals. Until then, it remains business as usual at ECI. There are no changes to our partnership as a result of this announcement, and we look forward to continuing to collaborate with you.

As always, we sincerely appreciate your support and confidence in ECI. Please do not hesitate to reach out to Udesch Kaul, Chief Procurement Officer (udesch.kaul@ecintl.com) with any questions.

Sincerely,

Michael A. Balsei

Chief Executive Officer
